

The Times-Reporter

FRIDAY, NOV. 28, 2008

DOVER-NEW PHILADELPHIA • WWW.TIMESREPORTER.COM • 50 CENTS

SPORTS: Titans steamroll Lions for Thanksgiving victory B1 WORLD: Indian hotels scoured for survivors, militants in wake of attacks A6

Arts & Leisure

ON THE AIR

A star is born

Photo courtesy Lee Sandstead

Lee Sandstead discusses an art work at the Walters Art Museum in Baltimore, Md.

Sandstead TV show debuts Sunday

When Newcomerstown High graduate Lee Sandstead stood in the lobby of Middle Tennessee State University's agriculture building looking at the couch that could either be used for sitting or artificial insemination practice, he never thought his life would change forever.

But that was the very building where he took his first art history class, a class that showed him a world he never new existed. Ever since, Lee has been on one grand art adventure after another, scouring the world for great art.

But Sunday, Lee will embark on what may be his grandest art adventure of all — the first season of "Art Attack with Lee Sandstead" will make its debut on the Travel Channel (cable

SEE SANDSTEAD, PAGE 3

'ART ATTACK WITH LEE SANDSTEAD' AIR DATES

Following is a schedule for the first four weeks of "Art Attack with Lee Sandstead":

Sunday
9 a.m. - Smithsonian American Art Museum, Washington, DC.
9:30 - National Gallery of Art, Washington, DC.
Dec. 7
9 a.m. - The Frick Collection, New York City.
9:30 - Brooklyn Museum of Art,

New York.
Dec. 14
9 a.m. - Walters Art Museum, Baltimore.
9:30 - Museum of Fine Arts, Boston.
Dec. 21
9 a.m. - Norton Simon Museum of Art, Pasadena, Calif.
9:30 - Los Angeles County Museum of Art