

'Angels & Demons'

Thriller better than 'Da Vinci Code' film. ENJOY, F6

Hudson's Mindy Meredith is double threat in softball.

READYSETPLAY. C1

AKRON BEACON JOURNAL

© Copyright 2008 Beacon Journal Publishing Co.

THURSDAY, May 14, 2009 A

News Online  www.ohio.com

75c
Home Delivery 800-777-2442

B4

Akron Beacon Journal • Thursday, May 14, 2009

Art Notes

Travel Channel host to have 'art attack'

Lee Sandstead to speak today at Akron museum as part of lecture series

Travel Channel host and art historian Lee Sandstead speaks at the Akron Art Museum at 6:30 p.m. today as part of the museum's Art History 101 lecture series.

Travel Channel aficionados may be familiar with Sandstead's Art Attack show, an art appreciation journey through the world's coolest art museums. In each episode, Sandstead, without being pretentious or patronizing, spotlights the top five must-sees in a single iconic art space.

With a reputation as an exciting and dramatic speaker, Sandstead has expressed his passion for art at more than 50 major institutions, including Harvard, Yale, New York University and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Sandstead is also a sought-after photographer of art, and his images have been featured in many publications. For more information, go to <http://www.sandstead.com>.

His talk is $7 (free for museum members) and takes place at the Akron Art Museum, 1 S. High St., in the Charles and Jane Lehner Auditorium. Call 330-376-9185 or visit <http://www.akronartmuseum.org>.

DOTTIE SHINN

Art historian Lee Sandstead relaxes at the Frick Collection in New York City between shooting scenes for the Travel Channel's Art Attack. He will speak at 6:30 p.m. today at the Akron Art Museum.